

Ben Freeth: Beware SA – EWC looks a lot like Zim’s 1992 foundational land grab law

BizNews South Africa By Alec Hogg

5th February 2025

Meet the remarkable former Zimbabwean farmer turned land restitution activist Ben Freeth, whose victory in a SADC Tribunal triggered the Mugabe/Zuma axis’s abolition of the highest court for 400 million Southern Africans. In this powerful interview with BizNews editor Alec Hogg, unbowed Freeth explains how a recently promulgated South African law has parallels with Zimbabwe’s initially ignored 1992 Act was the foundation for events that transformed his country from bread basket to basket case.

To listen to the interview, click on the link below, ignore “Watch here” and scroll down to “Listen Here”, then click on the arrow to start the recording, which is 36.32 minutes.

To listen to the interview, click on the link below, ignore “Watch here” and scroll down to “Listen Here”, then click on the arrow to start the recording, which is 36.32 minutes.

Ben Freeth: Beware SA - EWC looks a lot like Zim’s 1992 foundational land grab law

To listen on Youtube, click HERE